Mr. Ed. Mikesell has furnished us there through the country it is well to observe all possible precautions. There are many people who object to vaccination and there are some who are given to the circulation of rash statements as to the dangers of this preventive measure. Statistics go to show that vaccination has reduced the prevalence of the disease and reduced as well the possibility of epidemics. The highest authorities seem to agree that universal vaccination.

Last Monday Mrs. Jacob Ladderman beautifully succeeded in giving her mother, Mrs. Julia Lillick, who makes her home with her, a happy surprise. Mrs. Lillick was visiting in the country and by some strategy was induced to come home Monday morning where she found thirty-seven friends and relatives gathered to help her celebrate her eightieth birthday. A novel feature of the dinner table decorations was a birth-day cake in which was placed eighty candles. A happy day was spent and all wish for her many returns of the "Thorough vaccination and re-vaccination are the most important pre-ventive measures. All those exposed to infection should be vaccinated at once, as four days after exposure a once, as four days after exposure a successful vaccination may protect from disease. During epidemics general vaccination of the community should be isolated for sixteen days. Isolation of those with the disease should be rigid and, if possible, they should be placed in a special hospital."
